The Rani ki Vav in Patan, about 133 km. from Ahmedabad, is amongst the finest stepwells in India, and one of the most famous legacies of the ancient capital city of Patan. Rani (Queen) Udayamati commissioned this vav or stepwell in 1063 in the memory of her husband King Bhimdev I of the Solanki dynasty. The steps of the vav begin at ground level, leading you down through the cool air through several pillared pavilions to reach the deep well below.

Rani ki Vav is protected as a national monument administered by the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI). The ASI works to protect and maintain the rich cultural heritage of India, where World Heritage Sites such as the Taj Mahal and Chola Temple are famous. The Queen's Stepwell, on the other hand, is hardly known outside of the country.
