Lost on a Deserted Island is a valuable teambuilding activity that also helps people share a little about themselves. Given the scenario that everyone is lost and stranded on a deserted island, each person describes one object that they would bring to the island and why. This game is a teambuilding and get-to-know-you icebreaker. The recommended group size is medium, although small and large group sizes are possible too.

This desert island survival activity is based off the Lost at Sea team building game with a little tweak to fit my students' needs. This is n relation to the book Robinson Crusoe in my literature class. In this lesson, students participate in an exciting journey from a lavish cruise ship to a deserted island. The objective is to have them work cooperatively in small group of 5 or 6 and use their critical thinking to "survive" should they be stranded in a remote, isolated place (just ...
